

ADRx Pump Easy and Safe Therapy

The image shows the ADRx Pump assembly, which includes a clear plastic reservoir at the top, a blue pump mechanism in the middle, and a light blue reservoir at the bottom. A syringe is connected to the side of the pump. The entire assembly is connected to a clear plastic tube that leads to a drip chamber and a connector. The background is a blurred clinical setting with a white cloth and a blue circular graphic element.

Less electronic pump handling
More time for patient care

